DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vriens et al. (US pat 5,813,753).

With respect to claim 1, Vriens et al. teach a semiconductor light emitting device comprising (see fig. 5 and related text):

A substrate having a face;

A flexible film or epoxy 55 that includes therein an optical element (transmit light), on the face; and

A semiconductor light emitting element (LED) between the substrate and the flexible film and configured to emit light through the optical element.

With respect to claim 2, Vriens et al. further teach the face includes a cavity therein, wherein the flexible film extends onto and is attached to the face beyond the cavity, wherein the semiconductor light emitting element is in the cavity.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 15, 19, 20-21, 23-25, and 47 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vriens et al. (US pat 5,813,753).

With respect to claims 15, 19, 20, 23, and 47, Vriens et al. further teach the flexible film includes an optical element and a light emitting element between the substrate and the flexible film and configured to emit light through the optical element but fail to teach forming the flexible film includes a plurality of optical elements and a plurality of light emitting elements between the flexible film and substrate.

However, It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art of making semiconductor devices to form a plurality of optical elements over the flexible film and a plurality of light emitting elements between the flexible film and substrate to increase device integration density.

Further with respect to claim 19, Vriens et al. further teach the optical elements over the cavity.

With respect to claims 20 and 24, Vriens et al. further teach a phosphor layer 54 on the flexible film between the optical elements and the light emitting elements.

Further with respect to claim 47, Vriens et al. the light emitting element or elements in the cavity.

With respect to claims 21 and 25, Vriens et al. appear to fail to teach using different phosphors for different light emitting elements.

However, the use of different phosphors in light emitting elements to produce different colors or red, blue, and green lights is well-known.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 2, 15, 19, 20-21, 23-25, and 47 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
